

JETLOGICEDITED

Travel Radio Australia and I'm speaking to a very interesting lady called Natasha Dunn from Edinburgh and she's the business development manager of a fantastic company called JetLogic. Now they can organise all sorts of helicopter tours, jet tours for high-end clients. If you're coming to Europe they can do all sorts of things for you.

Natasha, welcome to the program. Thank you, it's lovely to be here and to speak with you. Now Natasha, tell us a bit about JetLogic.

Where is it based and what kind of services do you provide? So JetLogic is based in Edinburgh. We look after a variety of clients, whether they're corporate, they're high-end, could be MICE groups, it just depends what their needs are. Whether looking for helicopter tours like you say or private jets, it's a global service so it doesn't matter where in the world you are, if it's to be done by air we'll get you there.

So you can take people from not just Edinburgh but across the world. You can pick them up anywhere in Europe, you can fly them globally. Yeah absolutely and again our team, so you're coming into our team, we've got so much knowledge to share.

We're all about educating, supporting, we'll share various options of aircraft sizes and different costs and we'll tell you what's included with that. It's all about telling the client this is the value, this is the benefit behind it. It's not just about that A to B transfer, it's the whole seamless service.

So if you're looking for transport from your hotel accommodation, from your golf course, wherever you want to be and you need to get somewhere, you get in touch with us. We pride ourselves in coming back to you really quickly, share options and it's costs as well you know. What are you actually looking for? What do you want to do? And tell us about the aircraft that you have.

You've got a fleet of helicopters and private jets. No, so we don't own them. What we do, we're a brokerage company, we do aircraft brokerage, we do aircraft acquisition and management.

So whatever your needs are, we're going to help you get there. We're problem solvers, we're going to look for various options, present you with these and let you make those decisions, but it's informed decisions. Yeah, so if someone's saying I want a helicopter trip from say the UK to Spain or something, you can arrange all of that for them.

So exactly that, it's going to be a private jet and it might be something smaller, it might be something bigger. It all depends on your where to, where from, how many passengers are travelling, time of year, last minute versus booking six months in advance. Now as far as groups go, sometimes if people split costs, it can be very cost effective, can't it, to take a private jet and sometimes private jets, the smaller ones, are coming back from somewhere and you can jump on.

Is that possible to do that? Yeah, so that's an empty leg. You are reliant on that aircraft, the principal charter going ahead. Empty leg can be a fantastic option if you're flexible.

Again, depending on where the aircraft's going to and where it's going from, we have an empty leg newsletter and we have that offer on our website. So it's always worth getting in touch and even with a team, I'm looking to go from Paris to, I don't know, Paris to Spain, for example, what's on offer and we'll search to see what's out there for you. It's all exclusive use, so it's one bill pair, it's one client, you know, they might have family members travelling with them, it might be a group of buddies that are going out golfing.

Again, it just depends on their needs. And tell us about your background, because how did you, Natasha Dunn, the business development manager, how did you get involved with JetLogic? You've been in travel for many, many years, I should imagine. Yeah, so I've been in aviation now coming up 11 years.

My background is helicopters, predominantly within the UK. I joined the JetLogic team two years ago in September, and phenomenal. So I bring in the helicopter knowledge to the company, the company's predominantly private jets, so we're a nice complement of service.

Again, it's experience, it's knowledge. Between our boutique staff members, there's seven of us, we've over 130 years of knowledge, we want to impart that with you. Again, it's all about making informed decisions.

The more that you're educated, the more you understand, the more you see the value behind that product, the easier it is for you to make that decision. Does it fit in with exactly what you're looking for? Yes, and sometimes when you think of helicopters and aircraft, it sounds very expensive, but there's a huge audience out there with this kind of money who just want to have a seamless experience, correct? Exactly, and that's what it's about. They're time poor, they need to get somewhere, whether that's a business meeting, or they want to go on holiday.

You can turn up to the airport terminal, your private FBO, it's secure, it's private, you can rock up 15 minutes before your private jet, you're not having to be in your commercial airport with every Tom, Dick and Harry, two, three hours in advance. Who has the time for that? It is, it's about convenience, it's ease. Yes, when a lot of people get last minute meetings that they have to attend in person, and they can't just do it on Zoom, these are high powered meetings that they're required to be there, and they can just come to you and say, Natasha, I just need all the options for A to B, and you'll provide all of that.

Exactly that, and it's a quick service as well. It's one thing that our clients will consistently come back to us and say is, our response times are so quick, it doesn't matter what time of the day it is, or what day of the week it is, if it's important to you, it's important to us, get in touch, we'll be back to you with various options within a matter of hours. And what about sightseeing around

Edinburgh too? You can arrange all of that sort of thing, right? Exactly that, so you know, what's your interest? Do you want to see castles? Is it history? Is it heritage? Are you interested in whisky? I could have you in the west coast of Scotland, in a castle fine dining.

The Isle of Skye is hugely popular for a lot of our client base, they want to see all the major sights. Can you imagine seeing that by air? You've got the Old Man of Storr, the Corang, you can go to, there's some nice restaurants that you can go and visit for lunch, you want to make it a really nice experience. That's the thing, it's an expensive product, but we want to make it unforgettable, it's going to be unique, it's going to be different.

You come to JetLogic, we have that knowledge, again, we're going to share that with you. You get not just the experience of the travel, you get video experiences, you can take video from the aircraft, from the helicopters, and is that a kind of service you provide too, where the helicopter pilot can help you to create a memory like that, maybe video services or whatever? Or you do it yourself basically? Yeah, you're going to do it yourself, exactly that. We do have some clients, especially if they're working through a DMC, that they may well have a photographer on board that are capturing those unique moments.

The pilots are there predominantly for the safety, they can point out areas of expertise, interest, they could say, these forests, they were owned by this landowner, this castle is back from the century. They've got that knowledge, because this is what they do, they know the terrain, they know what's exciting and interesting, and they just want their passengers to have such an exciting time. At the end of the day, it's the pilots that are there, they're going to make that experience memorable.

You're in a very lucky position, Natasha, because I suppose you get to fly a lot, you get to experience these things on a familial basis, don't you? Not as often as I'd like to, but I have done. I've had the pleasure of flying both private jets and helicopters, and both offer unique opposite properties. Helicopters can be that real door-to-door service, from your hotel front door, to your golf course, to your distillery, to your castle, your restaurant.

And then private jets, obviously, you've got access to so many more different terminals, and ones that you might not even be familiar with. But again, our team are going to guide you through that. The world's your oyster when it comes to aviation.

Natasha Dunn, the Business Development Manager of JetLogic. How can people find out more online about the company? Search for us on social media, JetLogic, come onto our website. We have the website jet-logic.com, and everything's there, right? Yeah, that's it, www.jet-logic.com, all the information's there.

You can see our team, we're very open and transparent. Again, we pride ourselves on that. Yeah, come look us up.

Send us an email. Thank you so much, Natasha, for being on the program. And can you say hello to all of our listeners in Australia and around the world? Hello, Australia and all around the world.

It's lovely to meet you, and I can't wait to talk with you.
