

REBECCANOYDREAMWORLDEDIT

Travel Radio Australia, we're at the Arrival 360 travel conference here in Brisbane and I've run into Rebecca Noy from Dreamworld, Skypoint and Whitewater World. Three fantastic attractions on the Gold Coast, iconic. Rebecca, welcome to the program.

Thank you for having me. Now Rebecca, tell us about first of all the company you work for and what's its role and how does it connect to these three great venues? Yeah, so we belong to Coast Entertainment Operations Limited and we run the three attractions which is Dreamworld, Skypoint and Whitewater World. Two of our attractions are based in Coomera on the Gold Coast and Skypoint in Surfers Paradise.

Dreamworld being our main priority business, Australia's largest theme park and then Skypoint next with the Observation Deck which is an international and local driver. And that's Q1 building right? That's correct, yes. And that is Australia's tallest building? It is currently, yes, yes.

Dreamworld is such a magnificent place. All the families that come to the Gold Coast, it's really one of their big destinations to head to straight away, right? What things do you have new or what's coming up for Dreamworld? Yeah, so Dreamworld, we've expanded quite rapidly in the last five years with new rides and attractions. We spent about 200 million dollars on the business in the last five years and to expand, we've got King Claw which is our new attraction that launched in December last year.

The previous year we opened a new precinct which is called River Town. It's got two new family attractions. We've got Jungle Rush which is the world's first triple launch roller coaster and we've also got Marisipi Motors which is a restyle or revamp of our old vintage cars.

Tell us more about the Skypoint. I know that is a really incredible attraction. People can go up there and really get in touch with their feeling of heights and maybe get over their fear of heights.

Yeah, so Skypoint, as you said, is situated above the Q1 building. It's on level 77, has a 360 degree view of the Gold Coast including seaways and waterways into the hinterland. We also have a Skypoint climb attraction as well where you can basically summit and climb up to the top of the Q1 building.

All self-guided at a minimum of 10 capacity. You know, it's a beautiful attraction in itself so if you're ever on the Gold Coast and you want to see all the beautiful views, Skypoint's your place to be. I know how it works on the Sydney Harbour Bridge.

You're sort of hooked in, aren't you? So that's very safe. Yeah, definitely on a safety rail. We've got mechanics of, I guess, different... Whitewater World is our seasonal whitewater park.

It operates from September to April, seven days a week within the school holiday period and then we do close during weekdays of peak seasons. Yeah, and the summer period is just incredible. How can people book on to these? I suppose they can go to the websites and get family passes which includes a lot of stuff.

Can you explain a bit more about the family passes? Yeah, we do bundle our products. We have, two and three day attraction passes which includes all of the attractions. Our biggest driver is our annual pass which is for locals.

So you get all season round, Dreamworld, Skypoint and Whitewater World. And you can go unlimited as many times as you like for a set price. We've got a sale on at the moment which is $99.

So great value for families. We've also launched the first dining annual pass in Australia which is at $89 of value. It gives an extensive option of your select menu items for Dreamworld.

So it comes down to as little as $0.24 a day if you were to actually enter Dreamworld every day and transact that dining pass. Future plans? What's in store for these attractions? We've always got future plans. We will be looking at a new ride potentially next year.

But at the moment, we've worked very, very hard on Dreamworld and revamping that at the moment and it's looking great. It's a revamped part to what it was 10 years ago. So yeah, we're very, very proud of it.

Rebecca Noy from Dreamworld, Skypoint and Whitewater World. How can people find out more about these great attractions online? Yeah, you can head to our website, www.dreamworld.com.au. All of our ticketing and information and facts are located on that. Great.

Thanks for being with us on the program. No problem. Thanks for having me.
